

/ Blog

Home / News & insights / Octoverse

Octoverse

Your source for annual insights into the state of open source and public software projects on GitHub. From the most popular programming languages and repositories to emerging technologies and community engagement patterns, we offer data-driven reports that highlight key metrics, success stories, and the overall health of the open-source ecosystem.

Featured

How AI is reshaping developer choice (and Octoverse data proves it)

AI is rewiring developer preferences through convenience loops. Octoverse 2025 reveals how AI compatibility is becoming the new standard for technology choice.

/ Blog

What to expect for open source in 2026

Let's dig into the 2025's open source data on GitHub to see what we can learn about the future.

Dylan Birtolo · February 18, 2026

What the fastest-growing tools reveal about how software is being built

/ Blog

Dylan Birtolo · February 3, 2026

7 learnings from Anders Hejlsberg: The architect behind C# and TypeScript

Anders Hejlsberg shares lessons from C# and TypeScript on fast feedback loops, scaling software, open source visibility, and building tools that last.

Aaron Winston · January 27, 2026

We do newsletters, too

Discover tips, technical guides, and best practices in our biweekly newsletter just for devs.

Subscribe

☐ Yes please, I'd like GitHub and affiliates to use my information for personalized communications, targeted advertising and campaign effectiveness. See GitHub Privacy Statement for more details.

/ Blog

Why AI is pushing developers toward typed languages

AI is settling the “typed vs. untyped” debate by turning type systems into the safety net for code you didn’t write yourself.

Cassidy Williams · January 8, 2026

The new identity of a developer: What changes and what doesn’t in the AI era

Discover how advanced AI users are redefining software development—shifting from code producers to strategic orchestrators—through delegation, verification, and a new

/ Blog

“The local-first rebellion”: How Home Assistant became the most important project in your house

Learn how one of GitHub’s fastest-growing open source projects is redefining smart homes without the cloud.

Andrea Griffiths · December 2, 2025

/ Blog

Natalie Guevara · November 25, 2025

TypeScript, Python, and the AI feedback loop changing software development

An interview with the leader of GitHub Next, Idan Gazit, on TypeScript, Python, and what comes next.

Alexandra Lietzke · November 13, 2025

/ Blog

What 986 million code pushes say about the developer workflow in 2025

Nearly a billion commits later, the way we ship code has changed for good. Here's what the 2025 Octoverse data says about how devs really work now.

Cassidy Williams • November 7, 2025

Octoverse: A new developer joins GitHub every second as AI leads TypeScript to #1

In this year's Octoverse, we uncover how AI, agents, and typed languages are driving the biggest shifts in software development in more than a decade.

GitHub Staff • October 28, 2025

/ Blog

Octoverse: AI leads Python to top language as the number of global developers surges

In this year's Octoverse report, we study how public and open source activity on GitHub shows how AI is expanding as the global developer community surges in size.

GitHub Staff · October 29, 2024

The 2021 State of the Octoverse

The State of the Octoverse analyzes data from millions of developers & repos to share trends across working habits, productivity, and career satisfaction.

/ Blog

Octoverse spotlight: Exploring the people and stories behind GitHub data

In January 2020, the World Health Organization (WHO) declared a state of emergency. Even before the novel coronavirus had an official name, it set off global travel restrictions, widespread closures,...

Nicole Forsgren · March 3, 2021

The State of the Octoverse 2020

Octoverse spotlight: An analysis of developer productivity, work cadence, and collaboration in the early days of COVID-19

Following the 2019 Octoverse report, this latest article provides trends and insights into developer activity on GitHub in the early days of COVID-19.

Nicole Forsgren · May 6, 2020

/ Blog

Cathy Zhou · November 6, 2019

The State of the Octoverse: machine learning

We decided to dig a little deeper into the state of machine learning and data science on GitHub. Read on to learn more about what we found.

Thomas Elliott · January 24, 2019

/ Blog

Thomas Elliott · December 13, 2018

1 2 Next

The world's largest developer platform

Docs

Everything you need to master GitHub, all in one place.

Go to Docs

GitHub

Build what's next on GitHub, the place for anyone from anywhere to build anything.

Start building

/ Blog

CUSTOMER STORIES

Meet the companies and engineering teams that build with GitHub.

Learn more

The GitHub Podcast

Catch up on the GitHub podcast, a show dedicated to the topics, trends, stories and culture in and around the open source developer community on GitHub.

Listen now

/ Blog

Security	Partners	Community Forum	Blog
Enterprise	Atom	Training	Careers
Customer Stories	Electron	Status	Press
Pricing	GitHub Desktop	Contact	Shop
Resources			